

Willowed Whispers

Flicker in Hole

Sunset illuminated the hole, and a Northern Flicker soon appeared. As I started the recorder, the bird suddenly flew to a tree above me and drummed, paused, and finally flew off. The other birds then gradually regained their courage and began singing again.

http://

is.gd/tuboqu

whisper003.mp3
Plays 162 seconds - 2.5 megabytes

← Double-sided tape here →

Prism by William Engstrom
Whispers

This panel is hidden after folding

INSTRUCTIONS Print on 24 lb. paper. Cut on dots, fold on hyphens. Begin with bottom edge, cutting only enough below the dots so that they remain visible for when you later trim the sides. Then cut just above the top-edge dots in a similar manner. Next, align the hyphens over the sharp edge of your paper cutter and use finger pressure to score the three folds. Finally, trim both sides on the dots. Fold into a triangle, with the fourth panel behind the first. Use two small pieces of double-sided tape to hold it together.

Tested with the free app named Scan for iPhone and iPod touch - Page revised May 17, 2011
Designed by phototelegrapher.org and published through twitter.com/WillowWatchers